BILLBOARD COMPANIES AND CARNEGIE SCIENCE CENTER TEAM UP TO SEND UPLIFTING MESSAGE TO COMMUNITY

PITTSBURGH, May 4, 2020 — Though many Carnegie Science Center programs are postponed or canceled, the museum created uplifting messages to share in place of a previously planned billboard promotion.

When Science Center officials called Chairman of the Boards and Lamar Advertising companies to postpone the originally scheduled billboards, the businesses offered free space for a month or more, in addition to postponing their purchase, to spotlight the Science Center’s positive message of strength and good health to the Steel City.

“We are grateful for the support that our amazing local advertising companies offer to nonprofit organizations like the Science Center,” said Connie George, senior director of Marketing at the Science Center. “We wanted to offer educational resources and send an uplifting message to our community, and the generosity of Chairman of the Boards and Lamar Advertising allowed us to do that.”
